Palgrave Macmillan, UK, 2007. Softcover. Book Condition: New. First Edition. Available Now. Book Description: Against a background of rapid social change and new evidence about the relationship between individual autonomy, social change and structural inequality, Politics for a New Generation invites some of the leading lights of the Labour government and some of the best new thinkers from the younger generation of Labour politicians to renew progressive thought. It argues that 2007 represents a 'progressive moment' - a critical point at which Britain could enter into a new era of progressive economic and social change and outlines the substantive policy agenda that could get us there. : Review: 'This is a very timely book, setting out a thoroughly researched agenda for a renewed struggle against social injustice at home and abroad.' - Stuart White, Tutorial Fellow in Politics, Jesus College, Oxford University, UK : About the Author: NICK PEARCE is Director of ippr. Nick is a regular media commentator on political and social issues and has authored numerous books and papers on education, social justice, immigration and citizenship, the future of the welfare state, and South American politics. Nick was formerly a Special Adviser to David Blunkett at the Home Office (2001 - 2003). Publications include Social Justice: Building a Fairer Britain (2005) and Quiet Revolution: Progressive Government in South America (2005). : JULIA MARGO is ippr Senior Research Fellow and head of the Directors' Research Team. Julia is a regular commentator in the national press and other media. She is also editor of the political journal Public Policy Research. Julia spent four years at The Sunday Times as a commissioning editor on the News Review and prior to that she worked as a parliamentary assistant to Paddy Ashdown and Simon Hughes MP.
