Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from A Biography of Fernando Wood: A History of the Forgeries, Perjuries, and Other Crimes of Our Model Mayor When a candidate in 1854, he sought interviews with many whom he had a right to suppose would Oppose him, as they knew much of his real character, and of the alleged frauds charged upon him. He endeavored to persuade them that he had been unjustly accused; but when finding that he could make no impression on their minds in this direction, he then appealed to them for forgiveness, and solicited them to give him an opportunity to redeem his character through his election to the mayoralty. He stated, in some instances, that he sought this high position chiefly to remove, by his good conduct in official position, the deep prejudices that existed against him. This appeal induced some to support him, who otherwise would not have done so. When arrayed against a single opponent, Wood was easily beaten, as was the case in 1850, when he was beaten by several thousand votes. But he saw...
